Aerial platforms and manlifts have become integral and common equipment in industrial settings in the last few decades. These equipment provide an easy way to lift staff near what should be performed on a stable platform apparatus, allowing staff to carry out tasks with greater safety and comfort rather than being perched on top of ladders or scaffoldings.

The manlift is like other industrial tools in that they are safe when used correctly. Because they lift employees above floor or ground level, accidents can easily take place and this can lead to serious injuries or death for both the operators of the manlift as well as whoever passerby who may be unlucky enough to be standing beneath.

There are various models of manlifts. Most fall into 1 of 2 categories: the articulating boom lift, which has the capability of both horizontal and vertical movement and the scissors lift, which is capable of moving upward and downward.
